

Key findings of the group

- Silos - Insufficient collaboration and engagement across the professions, and we must remove the silos to make progress.
- Inconsistency - Clients are receiving mixed messages from their respective professional advisors.
- Support - Frontline practitioners feel that professional body support is currently inadequate to support the transition of our professions and economy.
- Education - Sustainability training and education should be mandatory for all professionals.
- Impact - Advised emissions could have a huge impact on professional services but it requires tough choices.
- Law - Fiduciary duty could be used strategically to force firms to change through collective action.
- System change - Firms and professional bodies should work together to facilitate system change.
